

Original Research Article

The inner logic of symbiosis and co-prosperity between rural grassroots party building and rural revitalization

Huanran ZhaoSchool of Marxism, Shandong University of Technology, Zibo, Shandong, 255049, China

Abstract: This paper discusses the internal logic of symbiosis and co-prosperity between rural party building and rural revitalization. The theoretical basis of both is rooted in the Marxist contradictory movement of productivity and relations of production; rural revitalization promotes the development of productive forces and prompts the adjustment of relations of production, while rural grass-roots party building dominates the optimization of relations of production to meet the needs of productive forces. In terms of goal orientation, they are all guided by the people's aspiration for a better life, rural grassroots Party building manifests the people's nature, rural revitalization is centered on farmers, and Party building provides political guarantee and organizational leadership for revitalization. On the main body of practice, all of them take the farmers as the core force, the farmers' party members play the role of linkage, and the grass-roots party organizations gather the synergy of all parties. The two are interdependent, synergistic, and jointly promote the Chinese countryside in the new era to write a new chapter of socialism.

Keywords: Rural grass-roots party building; Rural revitalization; Internal logic

1. Introduction

The strategy of rural revitalization takes “prosperous industries, ecological livability, civilized rural customs, effective governance and affluent living” as its general requirement^[1], and involves all aspects of rural life. Rural grassroots Party organizations are the leading force in implementing the rural revitalization strategy, leading all rural construction. The two are jointly writing a new chapter of socialism with Chinese characteristics in the new era in the Chinese countryside.

2. Consistency of their theoretical foundations

Rural grassroots party building and rural revitalization show a close synergistic relationship under the theoretical framework of the contradictory movement of the Marxist productive forces and relations of production, and the strategy of rural revitalization promotes the development of productive forces and puts forward new requirements for the adjustment of the rural relations of production, while rural grassroots party building is able to sensitively perceive and positively respond to these requirements, adjust the rural relations of production in a timely manner, and create favorable conditions for further development of productive forces. favorable conditions for the further development of productive forces. Marxism attaches great importance to the decisive role of productive forces in social development, and considers the development of productive forces to be one of the forces driving social progress. The strategy of rural revitalization profoundly embodies the implementation and practice of this concept in the rural area, actively introducing modern scientific and technological means in the countryside, transforming and upgrading traditional agriculture, improving the efficiency of agricultural production, and expanding the breadth and depth of agricultural production; improving the degree of organization and the professional quality of farmers, so as to improve the quality of the labor force as the key factor of productive forces in agricultural production; and integrating the factors of production in rural areas, such as land, capital and technology, to promote the internal development of productive forces in the rural productive system. Integration of rural land, capital, technology and other factors of production, to promote the optimal allocation and synergy of the factors within the rural productivity system, to lay a solid foundation of productivity for the sustained growth and prosperity of the rural economy, and to vigorously promote the overall improvement of the level of rural productivity, which is a vivid interpretation of the Marxist idea of the development of productive forces in the contemporary strategy of rural development and actively practiced. In the context of rural grassroots party building and rural revitalization, the implementation of the rural revitalization strategy is essentially the great development of rural productivity, and rural grassroots party building is a key link in adjusting and optimizing rural production relations. Rural grassroots Party organizations actively guide the reform of the rural land system, on the basis of adhering to the collective ownership of rural land, exploring the effective realization of the “three rights and responsibilities”, safeguarding the land rights and interests of peasants, so that the ownership of the means of production is more adapted to the needs of the development of the rural productive forces; to strengthen self-construction, to enhance the service consciousness and coordination capacity of Party members and cadres, and to actively resolve the problems of rural productivity and the development of the rural economy. It has also strengthened self-construction, enhanced the service consciousness and coordination ability of Party members and cadres, actively resolved social conflicts in rural areas, and created a harmonious and stable social environment in rural areas. Rural grassroots Party organizations adjust the relations of production to the requirements of the development of productive forces, thus promoting rural revitalization. The two-way interaction between rural grass-roots Party organizations and rural revitalization is closely rooted in the contradictory movement of productive forces and relations of production, and in the vivid practice of China’s vast countryside, it continues to infuse Marxist theories with vivid contemporary flavors and distinctive Chinese characteristics, and writes a new chapter of rural development with far-reaching significance.

3. Both are goal-oriented

Rural grass-roots party building and rural revitalization have a profound internal logical consistency in terms of goal orientation; the CPC takes the people’s aspiration for a better life as its own goal, and the implementation of the rural revitalization strategy is ultimately aimed at improving the living standards and happiness of rural people. Peoplehood is an essential attribute of Marxist political parties. Since its founding, the CPC has always placed the people at its core. The people’s nature is especially evident in the work of rural grassroots party building. Rural grassroots party organizations, as the party’s battlefield in the countryside, the starting and ending points of its construction are for the masses of peasants. From the perspective of organizational construction, rural grass-roots party organizations are committed to absorbing outstanding rural talents and cultivating a team of party members and cadres who are capable of leading peasants to prosperity and safeguarding their interests. These Party members and cadres penetrate into all corners of rural life, understand the needs and hardships of farmers, and combine the Party’s policies with the actual situation of farmers, so that the Party’s care can effectively benefit every farmer. The implementation of the rural revitalization strategy is an important strategic initiative to realize the aspirations of the people in the new era. In the process of promoting the work of rural revitalization, the CPC adheres to the people-centered development ideology, fully respects the wishes of farmers, effectively plays the role of farmers as the main body of rural revitalization, mobilizes the enthusiasm, initiative, and creativity of hundreds of millions of farmers, takes the safeguarding of the fundamental interests of the masses of peasants and the promotion of the common wealth of peasants as the starting point and ending point, promotes the sustained increase of income of peasants, and constantly improves the farmers' sense of gain, happiness and sense of security. The people are the driving force of historical development, and the promotion of rural revitalization should first and foremost stand firm on the people's position, tap the wisdom of farmers, and be revitalized by farmers. The strategy of rural revitalization is centered on farmers, interpreting the fundamental questions of "who am I", "who do I rely on" and "who do I do it for", and is a great response to the people's aspirations. Rural grass-roots party building provides a solid political guarantee and organizational leadership for rural revitalization. With its strong cohesion and combat power, grassroots party organizations can effectively integrate rural resources and mobilize the masses of farmers to actively participate in the construction of rural revitalization. The mutual promotion of rural grass-roots party organizations and rural revitalization is not only a guarantee of realizing the Party's original intention and mission and maintaining the true nature of Marxist political parties, but also an effective way to effectively revitalize the countryside.

4. Consistency between the two subjects of practice

Rural grass-roots party building and the strategy of rural revitalization have a high degree of consistency in terms of the main body of practice, both of which take the masses of farmers as the core force, rely on rural grass-roots party organizations to play a leading role, and rally the forces of all parties to participate in the construction and development of the countryside. The majority of farmers form the basis of the practical subject of rural construction, which is not only a valuable experience derived from the Party's century-long history of struggle, but also a realistic choice based on the complexity and arduousness of the rural revitalization strategy. "Adhering to the main position of farmers" as the basic principle of the implementation of the rural revitalization strategy. ^[2]] As the masters of the countryside and the direct beneficiaries of rural revitalization, the initiative, enthusiasm and creativity of the farmers have been fully stimulated during the implementation of the rural revitalization strategy. Whether it is the development of characteristic agricultural industries, or participation in rural ecological environment management, the construction of rural civilization and other work, the peasant masses are concrete practitioners and promoters. In the work of rural grassroots party building, peasant party members are an important link between the party organization and the masses of peasants. By strengthening their own construction and improving the quality of peasant party members and the cohesion and combativeness of party organizations, grassroots party organizations can better lead and organize the peasant masses to participate in the practice of rural revitalization. According to the strategic plan of the 20th Party Congress, to grasp party building for rural revitalization, highlight the political construction and political function of rural party organizations, the most fundamental is to adhere to the basic political line of the Party in the countryside, unity and solidarity, and to organize and implement the strategy of rural revitalization. The basic line of the party governs the direction, unity and solidarity govern the strength, and what is needed here is the effective play of the main role of the rural masses. In other words, only by tightly twisting the core of rural party building can we organize farmers, stimulate the vitality of rural governance, and play the main role of farmers in rural revitalization. ^[3]] Peasant Party members are rooted in the countryside, familiar with the rural situation, understand the needs and demands of peasants, and play their own exemplary leading role to drive the surrounding peasant masses to actively participate in the management of rural affairs, the development of agricultural production and the construction of rural culture and other activities. Rural revitalization involves the input and cooperation of resources from the government, enterprises and social organizations, etc. The grass-roots Party organizations can build a communication platform, coordinate the relationship between all parties, promote the rational allocation and effective use of resources, and unite a strong synergy for rural revitalization. Rural grass-roots party building and rural revitalization are interdependent and mutually reinforcing in the main body of practice, and together they constitute a powerful power system for rural construction and development.

5. Concluding remarks

Rural grassroots party building and rural revitalization are like two wheels of a car and two wings of a bird, showing a profound symbiotic and co-prosperous relationship in terms of theory, goals and practice subjects. This close intrinsic connection is not only the vivid practice and innovative development of Marxist theory in the rural area, but also the key to realize the comprehensive revitalization of the countryside and the modernization of agriculture and rural areas. In the future process of rural development, we should continue to strengthen the work of rural grassroots party building, give full play to its central role in leading the revitalization of the countryside, constantly stimulate the main force of the peasant masses, integrate all kinds of resources, and form a strong development synergy. Only in this way can we build a beautiful picture of prosperous industries, ecological livability, civilized rural customs, effective governance and affluent life on the vast rural land, lay a solid rural foundation for realizing the Chinese dream of the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation, and provide Chinese wisdom and Chinese solutions for global rural development.

References

- [1] Xi Jinping. Successfully building a moderately prosperous society in all aspects and seizing the great victory of socialism with Chinese characteristics in the new era [M]. Beijing: People's Publishing House, 2017: 40.
- [2] Opinions of the State Council of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China on the Implementation of the Rural Revitalization Strategy [M]. Beijing: People's Publishing House, 2018.
- [3] Zhou Yongwei, Li Yanlin . Rural grassroots party building in the new era leading rural revitalization : value implication, realistic dilemma and practice into[J]. Ningxia Social Science, 2023(2): 71.